Transferable Skills

Communication:

Exceptional communication is more than the ability to speak and write well. It's also about listening carefully and paying attention. I've worked with clients and colleagues from backgrounds and am familiar with different characters, cultures and behavioral traits. This helped me discover ways to overcome communication barriers to establish solid relationships. My writing is confident, clear and effective and can be tailored to diverse audiences.

Solving Problems:

Exceptional problem solving and analytical skills are essential in any position, especially in the complex, challenging and dynamic role of management.

I pay meticulous attention to detail and can assess a situation, look for numerous viewpoints, collect more information, address key issues to ensure derive alternative solutions and ensure efficient problem solving. When I deal with others or staff issues I never assume. I listen carefully, evaluate and understand their problem and act with patience and confidence to find a solution that will satisfy their need.

Lifestyle

Traveling inspires, rejuvenates and gives me new ideas and a fresh perspective. I love to travel to new and exotic places, trying diverse food and meeting different people. I'm an avid reader and enjoy crime, mystery and action adventure stories that keep me guessing. Also I enjoy Latin American literature. Watching movies, theater and listening music.
